

IoSCM Membership

About IoSCM - The Institute of Supply Chain Management (IoSCM) is the UK's leading Institute for Professionals working across the global supply chain.

With a growing global network of over 28,000 members, supporting some of the largest organisations from across the supply chain, IoSCM are proud to be able to offer professional memberships to individuals, at any stage of their career, and organisations affiliated with all sectors of the supply chain.

We are dedicated to improving standards of professionalism across the supply chain. Combining industry experience and knowledge with a passion for developing the skills of professionals enables our experts to create first class resources, learning materials and training guides. Unlimited access to these resources allows us to support the development of our members, students and corporate clients.

Becoming a member, student or client of IoSCM is a great way to benefit from our extensive experience in training, development and the functions across the supply chain. Working in partnership with IoSCM can provide you with the perfect platform for career advancement through continuous professional development, enhanced learning and global networking and can provide your organisation with the support you need to create new revenue streams and establish firm links with leading providers of supply chain services.

Join our global community, and stay connected.

Becoming a member of the Institute of Supply Chain Management provides learners, industry professionals and businesses with access to a range of services designed to enhance understanding and efficiencies in each sector of the Supply Chain.

With access to a worldwide network, being an IoSCM member allows you to build valuable relationships, share experiences and expertise with likeminded professionals on a global scale, and achieve international recognition within the industry.

Our membership packages are designed to meet the needs and expectations of individuals across the industry. From novice to CEO, each level of membership will enable you to take advantage of the resources, support and guidance appropriate to your own, or your companies, development requirements.
