INTRODUCTION

The Institute of Supply Chain Management, better known as IoSCM, are globally recognised as the world leading supply chain management institute. This year IoSCM are delighted to celebrate a decade of providing Ofqual regulated professional qualifications as they move into their 10th year as a British Institute.

The IoSCM Supply Chain Conference is going to be taking place in October 2022 and what an exciting event it is going to be. Throughout the day there will be exhibitors, guest speakers, seminars, panel discussions, workshops, networking opportunities and so much more. Taking place in our UK hometown, Newcastle Upon Tyne, we look forward to welcoming our members, clients and other professionals from across the supply chain to a fantastic day!

If you're unable to attend in person, you can certainly benefit from the hybrid elements of the IoSCM Supply Chain Conference, please register to attend remotely to enjoy the seminar's and the exhibitors virtual stands.

Places are limited so reserve your delegate place today!

Sustainability to Circular Economy

Sustainability to Circular Economy: Implication for Supply Chain Management

The philosophy of circular economy (CE) has been gaining traction within Supply Chain management and is mostly considered the next great leap towards a sustainable future. This presentation seeks to discuss practical steps that firms can take to ensure that they have readiness within the SC to adopt CE principles. The presentation would discuss sustainability and its transition towards a CE paradigm and share few frameworks that could be considered for implementing CE within Business functions. The need for developing a green mindset, geared for the future, would be discussed from a leadership perspective.
